2. Risk Disclosure

Trading the financial markets is associated with a considerable amount of risk. This warning is informative in nature and does not mean that all the mentioned risks can be incurred directly by you. The main purpose of this disclosure is to inform clients of all trading and non-trading risks, which may take place while trading in the financial markets. First of all, identify the purpose of your deposit and never deposit sum, losing of which will cause a negative impact on your budget. Trading on the foreign exchange market is dangerous because of the possibility of uncontrolled loss.

3. Leverage

The effect of leverage allows you to trade larger amounts of money than the money you have deposited. However, leverage can either work for you or against you.

At the same time, psychological factors have an important role to play also. Some traders choose to operate a bigger leverage size so as to allow them to trade with more money. It creates the illusion of "unlimited profit opportunities without any risk", but actually, it is not always the case.

A big volume of traded funds may bring great profit because of the leverage, but never forget that, along with the income, there is a big possibility of losing almost all the deposit.

Leverage used by you for trading can significantly affect your trading account even if there is only a slight fluctuation in the rates for financial instruments traded.

Carefully analyse and choose the size of the leverage that will help you avoid a high level of risk.

You are aware of and shall fully assume all risks related to the use of leverage and its effects.

4. High Volatility of Financial Instruments

A considerable number of trading instruments that are traded in the financial markets have a high intraday volatility.
